FOREWORD

Four years ago, we eagerly came to these halls to become members of the Bronco family. Restlessly, we waited, worked, and longed for the time that we would be seniors — on the eve of graduation. Now that these long awaited days are upon us, we face them with some concern.

The memories of our days at Fayetteville State University move before us like a great panorama — our joys, pleasant activities, little accomplishments, big successes, little disappointments — all the things that make our lives meaningful and worthwhile.

We, in this edition of the "1970 Fayettevillian," have collected from these years, bits, memories, moments that we have cherished — some things, too valuable to let fade away, keys to the store of memories that we have subconsciously tucked away, keys which may unlock for us in years to come, streams of pleasurable reflections.

For many years of watchful

We dedicate this book to those we love

Our Parents

We, the students of Fayetteville State University, with love inestimable, humility unexcelled and gratitude unexpressable, dedicate this 1976 Fayettevillian to our beloved parents.

Yesterday we aspired to reach today

Today we hope, dream,
and wish for tomorrow

Tomorrow we will look back and remember
yesterday as the way

BICENTENNIAL REFLECTIONS
BY Charles "A" Lyons, Jr.
Chancellor

During this year as we celebrate the Bicentennial of the founding of America, it is a time for reflection on the progress of Afro-Americans, from slavery to freedom; from isolation to greater participation in the mainstream of American life. It is, moreover, a time for reflection on the need for greater understanding, compassion, unity, determination and hard work to help make real in the lives of all Americans, especially Afro-Americans, the true meaning of the American Dream.

But this will not happen automatically. I am convinced that we have among Afro-Americans today, the brainpower, economic resources and influence, properly harnessed, to do whatever we want to do if we couple realistic goal setting with the dedication and hard work required to reach our goals.

The late Dr. Nannie Burroughs once wisely cautioned blacks that, "We must stop making excuses for not living up to high and rigid standards and stop charging our failures to our color, backgrounds and other people's attitudes." Like the late Dr. Burroughs, no one can convince me that God Almighty ever intended that a person's color should be anything more than a badge of distinction.

It is a fact that all of our historically Black institutions' facilities are inadequate and funds are short, especially compared to our white counterparts. Under these conditions it is all too easy to solace our egos with the thought that we have been unfairly dealt by, and we have. But in our heart of hearts we must be very sure that we do not permit lethargy to beguile us into satisfaction with second best. This day must emphatically belong to the dead past because you cannot meet society's competition equipped with a second class education. At Fayetteville State University a student can get a first class education if he takes full advantage of the resources and opportunities that exist. I hope that the reader will pardon a personal reference but I graduated from a small, poor, historically Black, private college and I have never really felt hampered by my undergraduate education, either in graduate school or anywhere else. In fact, as I reflect back on my college years, I developed, at that institution values, quite apart from the classwork, which I could not perhaps have developed at some other type institution and which values have been a bulwark for me in times of storm and there have been many in my life.

If our young budding leaders of tomorrow are to meet the challenges they will face in the world which they will inherit and if they are to maximize the potential that is in them, we must wake up and bestir ourselves; we have been sleep-walking too long. To paraphrase Macbeth, "Methinks I hear a voice crying sleep no more."

As we prepare to enter the third century of the independence of America, let us all resolve to reach deeply into the inexhaustible resources of the Hebrew-Christian traditions of this nation and draw therefrom, the quality, the dignity, the excellence, the purity, the self-sacrifice, the richness of life that it contains and apply these qualities to our lives and in our relations with our fellow human beings. If we do this, our lives, America, and the world will be better because we did.

Once the task is set, never quit until its done
no matter whether the labor is great or small,
do it well or not at all.

It's all in the state of mind
If you think you're beaten, you are
If you think you dare not, you don't
If you'd like to win, but think you can't It's almost a cinch you won't.

If you think you'll lose, you lost
For out in the world you find,
Success begins with a fellow's will
It's all in the state of mind.

For many race is lost, Ere ever a step is run
And many a coward fails, Ere ever his work begun.

Think big, and your deeds will grow
Think small, and you'll fall behind.
Think that you can, and you will
It's all in the state of the mind.

If you think that you are outclassed,
you are.
You've got to be sure of yourself
before you can ever win a price.

Life's battle don't always go to the stronger or faster man
But sooner or later the man who wins,
Is The Fellow who thinks he can.

Nothing would be done at all
If a man waited 'til he could Do it so well that no one Could Find fault with it.

Here is the, Almost impossible. With an extremely limited amount of help, the Bronco staff worked many hours, days, and months to present to you the 1976 "Fayettevillian," With your awareness that the task could not be accomplished without flaws, we tried to show the life at Fayetteville State University in every varying degree. We could not hope to satisfy every student, but an attempt was made. No doubt, we omitted something — something vital. However, we hope that this edition of the "1976 Fayettevillian" will be yours to cherish for a lifetime.
